Introduction

DeltaPrime requires us to review the admin and ownership of their deployed contracts to ensure that the owners/admins of these contracts are as expected.

They provided us with a list of contracts deployed on Arbitrum and Avalanche, as seen below:

Methodology

We use the following method to check the admin and owner of the contracts:

First, we must get a full list of deployed contracts on a chain. That's because the list of the contracts provided by the vendor could be incomplete. For this purpose, we first retrieve the deployer address of the contracts provided by the vendor, and then use the deployer addresses to locate other contracts that were deployed by the same deployer. We also remove the obsolete/test contracts that were explicitly specified by DeltaPrime in the previous section.

We got 356 and 472 contracts for Arbitrum and Avalanche, respectively.

Second, for each contract in the list, we:

- 1. Read the contract code of the owner() and admin() functions.
- 2. Use a web3.py instance to connect to the RPC of the chain, and then invoke the owner() and admin() functions.
- 3. Check if the returned owner and admin are in the known addresses list.

Note that the contract may be paused when invoking the function. In this case, we retrieve the state of the contract at the previous block before the pausing operation.

Result

The result is shown in the Google Spreadsheets, with the found admin and owner of each contract in the table. If the admin or owner is not in the known addresses list, we will mark it as [Unexpected].

For both Arbitrum and Avalanche, we do not find any unexpected addresses. That means all the contracts have known admin and owner addresses.

Summary

This security review was performed to identify the owners/admins of the contracts deployed to ensure that they have known addresses. Please review the result and make corresponding changes if necessary.

The report is written on October 1, 2024.
